Message from the Organizers

GENEVA KELLEY

Family violence has wreaked havoc in numerous homes throughout the world and has created devastating effects. It is incomprehensible that in the 21st century, people all over the world, in Saskatchewan, Meadow Lake and surrounding communities cannot feel safe and secure in their homes.

The campaign to end family violence calls for men, women and our youth to challenge the social, cultural, and political norms of our society. We call on individuals to be a voice for the neighbour who has lost their voice to abuse. We call on leaders to take a stand for those who have lost the strength and will to stand up to their abusers.

As a society we can no longer sit back quietly and "mind our own business;" we need to "Make it Our Business" and save lives! When taken into perspective, family violence is indeed everybody's problem and the solution is the responsibility of every member of society.

We would like to thank everyone who contributed in making this event a success through your input, time and resources. We are grateful to all the individuals who had the courage to share the horror of their experience; the presenters for bringing their expertise to the forum; and our leaders for engaging in such fruitful, relevant and open dialogue throughout the three days. Your contribution will undoubtedly begin to create waves of change in our families and the community at large.
